BUT DENIES ACCORD FOR TUESDAY

"We will stay here until we are WASHINGTON (Reuter). - Dr. Henry Kissinger said yesterday that peace in received," said Viktor Perelman, who Vietnam was within sight --- in a matter of weeks, perhaps days --- but he denied Hanoi's claim that there was a firm agreement to sign a cease-fire accord on fore applying for exit papers. Perelman, 43, said by telephone October 31. Dr. Kissinger told a press conference that while most of the important issues had been settled there was a need for another meeting at the Paris peace talks, lasting perhaps three or four days, to settle remaining issues.

Dr. Kissinger also said he was Dr. Alssinger also said he was convinced that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu would accept a cease-fire when one was finally negotiated. But, he said, the U.S. would not be stampeded into an agreement whose provisions were not right. President Nixon's special adviser addressed a White House press con-ference to state the American posi-ference to state the American pesition after North Vietnam issued a statement in Hanoi claiming that a secret agreement had been reached with the U.S. to end the war by next Wednesday, November 1. (See text - Page 5.)

It accused the Americans of jeopardizing the agreement by stalling.

URGE SIGNING

In Paris, where another session of the formal peace talks was held yesterday, North Vietaamese and Vietcong delegates called on the U.S. to sign and implement the reported agreement .

Dr. Klasinger threw the ball back to North Vietnam by denying any firm commitment to sign by October 31 in view of unresolved problems and asked for further private talks. He said the U.S. had already requested Hanoj to set a date for a final negotiating session at the Paris peace talks, or anywhere else convenient to the North Vietnamese. except Hanol

The presidential adviser, who visited Salgon last week, reported that and North Vietnam but disagreed with others. He refused to say what those disagreements involved.

Dr. Kissinger opened his press conference by stating: "We believe that peace is at hand. We believe an agreement is in sight ... '

TRUCE TEMING

The White House adviser said one source of possible misunderstanding with Hanoi over the timing of a cease-fire agreement appeared to be the North Vietnamese view that the U.S. could impose a solution on Saigon and that Saigon's participation in an accord was not required.

Dr. Kissinger said that after four years of stalemate the big breakthrough came about on October S, when he was in Paris to confer with Communist envoys, North Vietnam dropped its demands that it and the U.S. should pre-determine South Vietnam's political future before a cease-fire agreement was reached, he said.

Dr. Kissinger stressed the provision in the draft agreement broadcast by Hanoi yesterday stating that a council of national reconciliation and concord of three equal segments would be set up in South Vietnam to implement fizal agreements and to organize new elec-Mai-Gen. Ismail was a member tions.

TRYING TWO YEARS

The letter complained that some of the 53 signers had been trying for more than two years to obtain exit visas but were either repeatedly refused or given no answer.

It pointed out that several hundred Jews — among them engineers and other specialists - had been granted permission to leave since October 18, the day the Soviet-American trade package was signed in Washington. The repeated refusals to grant visas to the signatories, also specialists, were "ar-bitrary and groundless," the letter said. Police in Da Nang yesterday put on exhibit a girl whom they said was "We do not want our own and our families' fate to be made dependent on various economic considerations or on political talks and visits by national leaders," the letter said.

The 44 Jews who took the letter to Ovir on Wednesday said it was received by Lt. Col. Andrei V. Ve-rein, head of Ovir. They said he told Slepak: "You can be in any sort of a situation, but we won't five you a give because it's not in give you a visa because it's not in the interests of the state."

Goren fails to convince I.L.P. to postpone marriage bill

By MARK SEGAL

Jerusale Post Political Reporter TEL AVIV. - The younger sec-tion of the Independent Liberal Party has met with Chief Rabbielect Shlomo Goren to hear his plea for delaying their party's civil marriage bill for at least a year — but they emerged unconvinced.

They stated that they appreciated the Rabbi's good will and sincerity and were pleased at the "new wind" blowing through the Chief Rabbinate. However, as the Rabbi could not promise that he would solve all the problems of those Jews now beyond the pale for marriage in Israel, they held that the Hausner civil marriage bill should be tabled in the Knesset immediately.

Mr. Hausner is expected back from abroad over the weekend, and then he will meet Chief Rabbl Goren together with others in his party leadership. They will also meet Finance Minister Pin-has Sapir and Mapam leaders. It is understood that Rabbi Goren told the young Independent Liberals that a civil marriage law in Israel would be "a stain on the Jewish State and would divide the nation," Rabbi Goren hoped to settle the mamzerim problem within the framework of halacha, but he could not promise the same for other cases. "In every country there are limita-tions on individual rights," he said.

you'll find the most modern kitchens in europe at # 70 ibn-gvirol, tel-aviv.

Did you ever see kitchens like this before? Yes?

Then you must have been at the big furniture 'exhibitions in Europe this year.

Because these are designs and styles completely new in Israel. And they're all at the new store called Habitat.

Look at the photographs you see here.

You'll get some idea of how new and exciting these kitchens are,

And, just as important, you'll see that they're not just pretty looking, without practical benefits.

They come from one of the most famous and largest firms in Europe: ALNO

A firm that's become renowned for attention to detail as well as beauty in design.

Every item is carefully made (and well made) to fulfil its function.

And, very important to you, you can come in to Habitat and order a complete kitchen.

A new and original corner display, unique of its kind. With a stainless steel basin and electrical oven including & burners installed on a rotating marble surface. It offers the maximum convenience while you're cooking, dish-washing or doing any other kitchen chores. Above is a special device, designed to absorb cooking odours. And below are rotating shelves with a tremendous storage capacity.

Dish washing machine built-in to the complete unit.

A place for all your 'electricals'. All the electric sockets are combined and hidden within the unit. And the lower doors open upwards using a special hydraulic axis.

Deep, pull-out abelves, operating : telescopically, that offer convenient access to any article or commodity.

اعدالأصا

Ideal solution for the shelf-space problem. Shelves turn a full 360°, so you can use every inch of them.

Or order the smallest part of a kitchen now, and know that you can get matching components later.

Habitat is the most exciting furniture store in Israel.

You're invited now to come in and see those magnificent kitchens.*

And all the other good things Habitat has on display,

You don't have to go to Europe for them. Just step along to 70 Ibn-Gvirol in Tel-Aviv.

Five new caps in cricket 'Test' team By JACK LEON Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Five new caps are included in Israel's cricket team for the "Test" match against top London club Harrow at Ashdod today and Saturday. (Hours of play will be 9.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m.)

In addition, the side will have a new captain, Petah Tikva all-rounder Noah Davidson, a 37-year-old settler from India.

The other members of the team, announced by Israel Cricket Asso-ciation heads Ivan Kantor and David Golding, are: Larry Barnett, Hugh Kowarsky, Harold Jankelo-witz, Mike Mohnblatt and Tony Wiseman (all of the Tel Aviv cri-cket club); Naphtali Ramrajkar and Isaac Solomon (Kiryat Ata); Nahum Reuben (Ashdod); Alphius Nashon (Beersheba "B"); and Nissim Reuben (Ramla). Team manager is Petah Tikva's Gabriel Kandli.

The new caps, all recent immigrants to Israel, who have made their mark in the local game this season, are all-rounders Nashon and Nissim Reuben, who both played good-class cricket in India prior to settling here; wicketkeeper-batsman Solomon from Pakistan, who "kept" for Karachi University; Barnett, a No. 4 batsman from Johannesburg, where he turned out for Balfour

Park; and all-rounder Mohnblatt, who played for the M.M.C. and Middlesex second XI in his native London.

Strong side

Of the remaining players for the "Test," only Davidson, opening bats Kowarsky and Wiseman, and leftarm spinner Nahum Reuben were in the Israeli touring team beaten by Harrow by five wickets in London in 1970. Fast bowler Ramrajkar and batsman Jankelowitz won their caps against South African Maccabl last year.

Harrow is fielding its strongest XI for this weekend's "Test." The side was announced by team managers Geoffrey Davis and Henry Pinkus on Wednesday evening, after Harrow's 73-run victory over a local invitation XI at Ashkelon gave them the fourth win of their tour (they have one defeat and one draw, against Central Israel). Harrow's team is Westmorland (captain), Ansley, Clubbe, P. Davis, D. Dury, Haynes, Herman, Lipman, Payne, Scott and Whitehead, with Dury and Folkerd in reserve. Р. The players are accompanied by a group of more than 20 supporters, voices CINGERS Ady Ezion and Calla Grossmayer with Yonathan Z.k at the plano have become a perteam and this was them nanent second appearance in Tel Aviv. There is no doubt that they are deeply concerned, not only with the programme and the level of the performance, but are in constant search of unknown music of various periods and even know to spice their bill with entertaining and humorous numbers (Comic duets for two cats by Rossing). Their highly professional and thoughtful ap-proach deserves full appreciation particularly as all this effort paid off generously at the concert and we were treated to an interesting evening.

The voices of Ady Emon and Cilla Grossmayer differ sufficiently o provide variation, but are enough alike to assure a blending of so-nority in duets. Some of these, as the Dvorak songs and the unknown and beautiful Cornelius, offered an exciting display of vocal art and a fascinating interpretation.

Some reservations

As to the solo numbers I do have few reservations. Miss Ezion's Bach (from Cantata No.98) w.: slightly overdone and a little too heavy. The Sacrat aria however, another unknown and very beautiful plece of music, was exemplary both in vocal quality and emotional content. Miss Grossmayer was the perfect interpreter of Bach, but a little too cool in the Schumann songs.

Oboist Avner Itai added a welcome diversion of sound and colour, although not all of his playing was up to the standard we remembered from his days with the Chamber Ensemble, A more critical assessment of the music would perhaps also have caused him to drop the completely worthless Oboe Sonata by Pepusch.

Yonathan Zak was as usual the sound and reliable partner. BENJAMIN BAR-AM

THE JEEUSALEM POST - BUSINESS AND FINANCE

By AVRAHAM BABINOVICH

Jerusalem Municipality officials have been nervously eyeing a scal-folding that has gone up the full height of the Tirat Batsheva Hotel

The hotel management has requested permission to add another seven storevs to the seven-storey structure but no decision has been made by the planning authorities.

When the scaffolding started going up last week, a municipal inspector was dispatched to the hotel to see what was afoot. He was told by the management, according to an official in the City Engineer's office, that the scaffolding had been put up in order to make repairs on the roof before the winter rains. The municipal spokesman said on Wednesday that a close watch would be kept on the hotel to ensure that no attempt is made to "create facts" by constructing first and asking permission later. The hotel has been warned that any new construction

The architect who designed the proposed addition to the hotel, Mor-dechai Ben-Horin, told The Jerusalem Post on Wednesday that the scaffolding had been put up to repair chinks in the building's stone facing through which rain might penetrate. He added, however, that if permission is received for the additional storeys, then the scaffold-ing could be used for construction.

This is thoroughly boring and provincial to young "with-it" visitors from abroad. It is more impressive to anxious middle-aged observers who went through World War II, and know the fearful price that can be paid for demoralization.

These same anxious middle-aged observers run policy in the White House and the Pentagon. They recognize that, in an increasingly un-stable world, Greece and Israel are becoming, in their different ways, bastions of defence in the East Me-diterranean. Ten and 15 years from now, the two will be relatively industrialized nations, with an output more than double the present level. # Saigon's uncertain future

THE veil of secrecy has now been lifted from the Vietnam negotiations, as they enter their final stage. Henry Kissinger had little choice but to confirm the details of the draft agreements as broadcast by Hanoi Radio. Fearing a last minute change of heart in Washington, and resis-tance in Saigon, North Vietnam has resorted to world public opinion in order to press the United States to override any opposition by South Vietnam's President Thisu.

For South Vietnam is asked, according to the draft agree-ment, to pay the heaviest price for the cease-fire and a future political settlement. Saigon has to recognize the Provisional Re-volutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam, hitnerto known as the Vietcong. It is also asked to invite "neutralist" elements into the pro-posed National Council for Na-tional Reconciliation. The present Salgon Government, while it will remain in office, will constitute only a third of the future Coun-

Furthermore, all parties will observe a military standstill and remain in their positions on and remain in their positions on the day the cease-fire takes effect. There is no mention in the draft agreement of any with-drawal of North Vietnamese regular forces: many of them invaded South Vietnam last April but failed to win their objec-tive. In fact. North Vietnam is hardly mentioned in the agreehardly mentioned in the agree-ment. The Vietcong is asked to observe the cease-fire and prebase for the future elections. The U.S. agrees to complete withdrawal and non-intervention in the affairs of South Vietnam.

The agreement worked out between the U.S. and North Vietnam will be implemented in stages. Cease-fire is the first the lifting of the naval blockade the second, to be followed by an exchange of prisoners, total

America's keen interest in bringing the unhappy Vietnam war to an end has long been apparent and without connection with the presidential elections. But the draft agreement makes But the draft agreement makes the fate of South Vietnam de-pendent on Communist good will to such a degree that President Thieu understandably feels South Vietnam is being abandoned to its fate. For irrespective of the nature and character of the pre-sent regime in South Vietnam, Saigon is being asked to share the government with its Com-munist and neutralist enemies. # RUSSIA AND EGYPT: PARTS FOR PORTS

WEDNESDAY night's statement by Egyp-tian Premier Aziz Sidky that the Rus-sians have promised to resume aid to Egypt as a result of his recent conciliatory visit to the Kremlin, hardly means that Cairo-Moscow relations will be the same as they were before the split. Reading between the lines of the report which Sidky presented to the joint meeting of parliament and central committee of the Arab Socialist Union suggests that there is no chance of a return to the "old tles.'

Sidky's main aim was obviously to boost the image of President Sadat, whose policy has come under fire lately both in Egypt and throughout the Arab world.

While claiming that his Kremlin talks were "satisfactory and successful," Sidky added that the Russians were now cooperating in arranging for the holding of an Egyptian-Russian summit conference to discuss a new basis of relations between th two countries following the withdrawal, Sadat had decided on the holding of talks at the time of the change in relations with the Soviets in July, Sidky said. His other de-cisions — the withdrawal of Russian personnel and the placing of all Soviet installations and immovable equipment under the control of the Egyptians — had been implemented. Sidky went to pains to emphasize the "decisiveness" of Sadat's character.

In making his statement Sidky appeared to have ignored the Soviet note of caution which was evident in the joint communique issued in Moscow and Cairo following the Egyptian Premier's talks with the Soviet leadership (the Kremlin's strongman, Leonid Brezhnev was not present). Sidky sought mainly to emphasize that the Soviets have promised to go on strengthen-ing Egypt's potential "for the battle," but within the framework of Moscow's "capabilities."

Sidky revealed that an Egyptian military delegation will go to Moscow on November 10 for five days of talks, and said that "practical were already being taken by the steps" Soviets, under their renewed pledge, to honour their commitment to aid Egypt.

The Egyptian Premier made no mention of the 15-year treaty of "friendship and cooperation" which the Soviets stated in the joint communique was the basis of relations between the two countries. With this treatywhich was signed between Cairo and Moscow in May last year — obviously a fundamental issue between the two countries, the Russians seem likely to put their aid to Egypt on a purely business basis involving an exchange of parts for ports. It remains to be seen what the Soviets envisage as their "capability" of strengthening Egypt's potential.

Despite the removal of what Sidky described as "the frost" from Cairo-Moscow relations, the crisis in Soviet relations with Egypt appears still to stem from the lack of con-fidence and trust in President Sadat and the political entourage surrounding him, mainly Premier Aziz Sidky and War Minister General Mohammed Ahmed Sadek.

Sidky himself in fact indicated in his statement that the Soviet leadership had questioned the political course of the Sadat regime. He did not spell out what exactly had been said — especially in his talks with Premier Alexel Kosygin and President Nikolal Podgorny — but judging from his repeated emphasis on the phrase "I told the Soviets," the Egyptian Premier implied he had had a hard time convincing the Kremlin leaders that President Sadat was not diverting from the traditional ties with the Soviet Union or from the path of socialism.

The Egyptian Premier stressed that he had assured the Soviet Union that President Sadat was in fact strengthening his ties with Moscow and promoting socialism. Sidky was apparently admitting that the Soviet Union had expressed its irritation over a number of aspects of Sadat's behaviour. He said flatly that the Russians demonstrated their disappointment about "the manner" Sadat had ousted their men from Egypt, and with the subsequent Cairo press attacks on Moscow

The Soviets were also understood to have been concerned about Sadat's failure to consult them on his political decisions and con-tacts with the outside world at a time when he considers Moscow committed to Cairo.

* * *

THE Soviet assessment of Sadat's policy remains secret, presumably to avoid further open arguments, However, an assessment from a different quarter came this week when Sudan's President, Ja'afar Numeiri, charged that Sadat was not only failing to consult his allies and friends, but was simply "not telling the truth" to them.

In an interview with Beirut's leading "An-Nahar" newspaper the Sudanese leader sharply criticized his one-time close ally who, he accused of hypocrisy, and double dealing. The Soviet Union and the Sudan — who have been involved in a grave dispute themselves apparently hold a common view that President Sadat is not trustworthy. Their particular attitudes towards Egypt seem unlikely to change before the overthrow of Sadat — and reports from Calro suggest that attempts towards this end are being planned.

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, - "Arab labour worries Almogi" (October 19) and it is about time some more people began worrying too. There are officially about 50.000 Arabs from the areas employed in Israel. The recent Ash-kelon-Ashdod checks revealed nearly an additional seven per cent of the official Gaza labour force to be unofficially employed, so that allowing for those who were not detected, one can safely conclude that there must, on the whole, be at least 10 per cent more than SERVICED APARTMENTS
